Rent of sound equipment

Rent of sound equipment is where the discussion of the technical side of a wedding should start. It's impossible to imagine a wedding nowadays without an accompanying sound. Additional sound equipment is always required if there's at least a cover band at the wedding. The precise equipment set and backline for each band can be completely different. The final cost of the sound equipment also depends on the chosen venue.

Rent of sound equipment : from 800 EUR

Rent of light equipment

With guests and an entertainment programme at your event, installing light equipment is a must, because it's the light that created a special ambiance for the celebration. It is also important for good quality photos and video.

Laser uplights that lighten up particular parts of the hall can help adjust the space, and a special lighting truss is used for the dance floor and cover band zones.

Professional light helps put the right accents on the stage as well as on the dance floor, and adds beauty to your wedding venue of choice. If you have additional entertainment programme, the whole event becomes a real show with the help of the light.
